

Even the Congressional Research Service sees problems with Sen. Klobuchar's antitrust pet project S2992

Here are some of their findings:

Fundamental flaws...

"Interpretive issues recur throughout the bill and could present regulators and courts with difficult questions if the legislation becomes law."

Might impact content moderation...

"Whether Section 3(a)(1)(3) would in fact prohibit certain forms of content moderation is unclear."

Threatens our security...

"Specific types of interoperability may create privacy concerns and data-security risks."

"Implicates difficult questions involving innovation, privacy, data security, and online speech."
