September Polling Results on Economic Issues Facing Americans Ahead of the 2022 Midterms

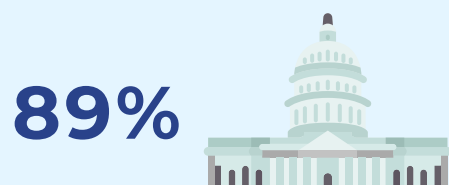

Americans are concerned about real economic issues like rising prices—not unproductive, political efforts to limit tech innovation.

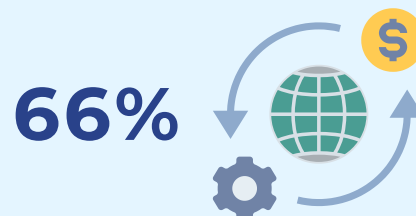

Nearly two-thirds of Americans believe the country is headed in the wrong direction.

oppose a ban on Amazon's in-house brands promoting their own products (e.g. AmazonBasics). Only 12% support such a ban.

say Congress should focus on addressing inflation rather than breaking up large tech companies.

trust the free market to address competition in tech. Only 18% of Americans said they trust the government more to address this.

say the economy is the biggest issue facing us today. Only 2% of Americans say regulating the tech industry is a top 3 priority for them right now.
